Continue working rows 1-20 until your work measures 30ins (or desired length) from the cast on edge ending after completing a purl row. Bind off loosely. You will need to lightly block the wrap straight. The pattern natural creates a diagonal effect but blocking cures that.

**A note about length: I like my length to be about 30ins long. I feel it is long enough to wrap and have a flowy end but not so long that you can't tuck it in if you like. It is also the perfect length for the "egg" wrap. It's not bulky and there isn't a lot of length to tuck in after you have the baby wrapped. Two other very popular lengths are 36ing and 40ins. What length you choose is 100% up to you. Play with it and have fun! It would also look awesome as just a layering piece. For that you could go shorter, maybe 20-24ins.**

To Block Mohair: Using rust proof pins, pin your finished work onto large foam "puzzle piece" floor mats (I got mine from the carpet section of Home Depot). Make sure you don't pull or stretch it too much, just enough to make it rectangular. Using a clothing steamer (I use a cheap handheld portable steamer... in pink of course ;) ) run the steam over your work slowly. As you do this you should see the fibers relax. Let your wrap dry, unpin, and view your beautiful finished work.
